

Angela Montgomery

March 13, 1965 - July 4, 2025

Angela Howell Montgomery was born on March 13; 1965; in Butler, Georgia, to the proud parents of George and Barbara Howell. At the tender age of 3, she relocated to New York, where her early years was shaped by New York surroundings and opportunities. While attending high school in Freeport, New York. Angela discovered her passion for learning and transformative power of education. After graduating, she returned to the place where her journey began—her beloved hometown of Butler, Georgia.

After returning to Butler, Georgia, Angela rekindled her roots and embraced the warmth of her hometown. It was there that she met and married Mack Montgomery.

Angela's marriage to Mack complemented her commitment to service as she continued her work at the Taylor County Health and Rehabilitation Center with unwavering dedication. Angela dedicated two decades of service to the Taylor County Health and Rehabilitation Center, where her steadfast commitment and compassion left an enduring impact. She began her career as a certified Nursing Assistant, providing hands on care and comfort to the residents with tenderness and dignity. Her leadership potential quickly became evident, and she was promoted to Supervisor of Housekeeping, where she ensured a clean, safe, and welcoming environment for all.
